GIANT WILL BE KAMEHAMEHA AT FLORAL PARADE

Kamehameha the Great was a very big man, but he probably wasn't any bigger than the man chosen to impersonate him in the modern representation of his landing on Oahu, on the occasion of his conquest of the whole group. The great king's chiefs were 11 large-sized individuals, but probably they didn't average as big as the men who are to surround the modern Kamehameha.—Palenapu, who was formerly on the police force. He is about six feet tall, and proportioned accordingly, and will make a splendid figure.

W. T. Rawlins, chairman of the regatta committee has engaged several others, to act with Palenapu as Hawaiian chiefs. "We shall have a dozen or more Hawaiians, not one of them under six feet," said Rawlins. "We haven't any trouble finding them." It is the intention to make the landing of Kamehameha, which is one of the great events in Hawaiian history, as realistic as possible. Historians are being studied and local authorities consulted, with a view to reproducing the actual scene that took place when he "Napoleon of the Pacific" began the Oahu campaign that ended in the battle of Nuuanu and the driving of his opponents over the Pali.

Duke Kahanamoku will be one of those active in the management of the historic scene, as well as of the whole regatta. He and Rawlins had a long consultation in the latter's office a few days ago, over the program of the afternoon, with the result that the Waikiki Regatta committee is going to be ready with its whole program at an early date.

A huge grandstand, probably extending out into the ocean beyond the Moana hotel pier, will probably be built for spectators.

MAYOR'S BALL' NEW YEAR'S EVE

The proposition made by the New Year's Eve committee of the merchants' association to hold a dance on the Bishop Park sidewalk on New Year's Eve, has met with enthusiasm on all sides, and has been christened the Mayor's Ball, an event which will go down in Hawaii's history under that name. And Mayor Fern will lead the grand march on the first annual celebration.

The committee having in hand the arrangements of the New Year's Carnival, of which Julius Unger is chairman, has made plans for the closing of Bishop street between Hotel and King streets, and only pedestrians will be allowed within the enclosure, while the Eva sidewalk will be reserved for the dancers. The Hawaiian band will be in attendance from eight until ten o'clock, and after that time the First Infantry band will furnish the music.
